

WILPF and The Clapham Film Unit present

These Dangerous Women

A Heritage Lottery Funded project

Olive Amy Jetley

1882-1975

By Pat Pleasance

“a member of the British Committee at the start of the arrangements to set up the Congress in The Hague”

Born in 1882 to Zillah and Lionel Jacobs, Olive Jetley was part of an internationally extensive Jewish family. Although it isn't known for certain how Olive, her sister Eileen and brother Hugh came to have the surname Jetley, it's possible that their mother remarried abroad on their father's death in 1892.

Olive is recorded as a member of the British Committee at the start of the arrangements to set up the Congress in The Hague. Her function on that committee was a 'reporter', which may have included clerical duties. However, she wasn't listed amongst the Committee members in the final report of proceedings at The Hague.

In 1917, Olive Amy Jetley married Frederick James Errock. She died in 1975, aged 93, in Kingston upon Thames.

